March 31, 2021

Dear Holy Cross staff and families:

Peel Public Health is currently investigating a COVID-19 exposure in our school community.

The individual was not in our school during their period of communicability, therefore, if you have not been contacted by Peel Public Health, this means your routine does not need to change. Individuals who have been notified by Peel Public Health are advised to get tested. Peel Public Health has informed us that the risk for the rest of our school remains low.

As per our previous communication on March 24, Holy Cross Catholic Elementary School has switched to remote learning effective Thursday, March 25, with a return to in-person learning on Tuesday, April 6.

The identity of the person is protected under privacy legislation and cannot be shared. Keeping you informed when an exposure occurs is part of our commitment to you. Please visit Peel Public Health's website for information on how they are working to help keep our staff and students safe. We encourage you to follow the Core Four Actions and to stay home when not feeling well.

As variants of concern (VOC) are here in Peel, we are taking the necessary steps to investigate, and limit spread. Now that VOCs are common in Peel, it is likely that this person with COVID-19 may have a variant strain, however, confirmation takes more time.

It is important to remember these variants are not a new disease and we continue to encourage everyone to follow public health guidelines and continue to physically distance, mask, stay home and get tested if symptomatic.

Now more than ever, we must take care of ourselves and each other. We can do this by following the advice of public health agencies and government officials. Please review their advice on how you can protect yourself and others from COVID-19.

Thank you for your attention to this important information.

Sincerely,

G. Graci
